To the Employer,

The CDC recommends that people at higher risk of complications from COVID-19 infection be given accommodations as much as possible to work safely – this may involve allowing the employee to work remotely, providing more PPE in the workspace, creating more spacing from other employees, and/or being removed from working with the public.

Additionally, no employee should be asked to provide unsafe services such as driving in vehicles with other people, standing close to another individual without use of an N-95 mask, eating or exercising in an enclosed space, etc.

The same guidelines apply if the employee lives with someone at high risk of COVID-19 complications.

We strongly recommend that you, the Employer, make reasonable accommodations for our patient (and their family members) during the Pandemic.

At Atkinson Family Practice, we do not write separate letters for each employee as this is a universal situation in the US. Employers are already mandated to protect their employees from harm.

Sincerely,
